Weekly Grain Comments

(Source: Bendigo Bank Agribusiness Pro)

To the point:

- Domestic cereal and pulse prices broadly softened across the country as improving production confidence quickly eroded recent drought premiums, while canola remained highly volatile but resilient, tracking closely with offshore oilseed markets.
- Weekly grain exports from the US and Ukraine fell sharply as shipments of US wheat dropped 21% and Ukrainian corn volumes plunged nearly 30%. The sudden export slowdown eased regional competition, handing Australian sellers a temporary window to capture spot demand in Southeast Asia. Meanwhile in the EU, wheat and barley exports climbed steadily on the back of strong shipments from Romania and France, with China emerging as a major buyer.

International and National news

Exceptional and widespread rainfall across all major growing regions has cemented an outstanding start to the winter cropping season nationwide, significantly boosting subsoil moisture profiles and driving strong early crop establishment.

Domestic cereal and pulse prices broadly softened across the country as improving production confidence quickly eroded recent drought premiums, while canola remained highly volatile but resilient, tracking closely with offshore oilseed markets.

Weekly grain exports from the US and Ukraine fell sharply as shipments of US wheat dropped 21% and Ukrainian corn volumes plunged nearly 30%. The sudden export slowdown eased regional competition, handing Australian sellers a temporary window to capture spot demand in Southeast Asia. Meanwhile in the EU, wheat and barley exports climbed steadily on the back of strong shipments from Romania and France, with China emerging as a major buyer.

Russian spring grain planting advanced rapidly last week to 79% completion, though overall progress still lags nearly 12% behind last year's pace. Simultaneously, a harsh late-May heatwave caused French wheat and barley crop conditions to deteriorate sharply across the board.

Wheat

QLD/Nth NSW

Queensland wheat values softened as improved rainfall prospects boosted production confidence, allowing buyers to take a more cautious approach. Despite the favorable conditions for current plantings, overall wheat area is expected to decline as growers weigh elevated input costs against potential returns.

Sth NSW/VIC/SA

Wheat markets across New South Wales and South Australia experienced significant downside pressure as widespread rainfall caused recent drought premiums to rapidly unwind. Although grower selling remains relatively light, buyers have become increasingly comfortable with their coverage as new season production prospects vastly improve.

Barley

Sth QLD/Nth NSW

Barley values eased slightly alongside the broader cereal complex, though the crop remains highly favored by growers for the current planting season. Many producers are increasing their barley acreage over wheat, driven by lower input requirements and reliable, consistent demand from the local feedlot sector.

Sth NSW/VIC

Barley values retreated across both states as the recent wet weather provided livestock producers and domestic feed buyers the confidence to step back from the market. While overall supply remains tight and grower selling is measured, the lack of urgent buyer demand continues to weigh heavily on pricing.

Sorghum

QLD

Sorghum markets traded sideways as slowing domestic feed consumption and lackluster export interest failed to provide any strong price foundation. With the majority of the current crop already sold and market liquidity thinning, prices are expected to remain range-bound unless a sudden shift in buyer demand occurs.
